PROCESS GUIDE

Three Processing Options

Processing influences clarity, sweetness, body, and fruit expression. These descriptions are general guides; the approved sample and lot specification remain decisive.

WASHED

Clean & defined

Pulp is removed and the coffee is washed before drying.

Buyer direction: Often selected when buyers prioritize clarity, consistency, and a cleaner expression.

NATURAL

Fruit-forward

Whole coffee cherries are dried before hulling.

Buyer direction: Often selected for stronger fruit character, sweetness, and a fuller sensory impression.

SEMI-WASHED

Structured body

Pulp is removed and moisture is reduced before final hulling or drying.

Buyer direction: Common in Indonesia and often selected for body, depth, and a distinctive regional expression.

Sensory direction is indicative only and is not a substitute for sample evaluation.
